

GRBR PILOT ONLINE REGISTRATION INSTRUCTIONS

The Great Reno Balloon Race (GRBR) has now made registering for the event easier for you and future years to come. With the new system, the data you submit will be retained in our database, and you will be able to easily update your data as changes surface – up to 60 days before the event. You will be asked to scan required documents and to upload them to the system – making registration more seamless and paperless. To ensure you are moved onto the next step of approval, you must upload and submit all required documents. You can update documents later, as needed. Before leaving any page, you will be required to save your changes by selecting at the bottom of the page “UPDATE”. The registration software will validate your documents. To “submit your application” you will be required to go to the Home Page and on the Main Menu the last selection is “Submit my documents”. Click on that link, your documents will then be available to the to the GRBR staff.

FOR RETURNING USERS: If you registered for a previous year’s event, your profile and data submitted last year is currently still active. Please update any data, along with documents, that have changed. All data and documents for this year’s event will be re-reviewed by the event staff before you are approved to attend the event so ensure all information you submit is valid.

To update your registration, you will locate the GRBR Login Box and login with the appropriate credentials assigned to you when you first registered. From there, you will update information as needed, as well as documents.
